ETHIOPIA HUMAN RIGHTS PROJECT

From late 2015 up to date, the largest ethnic group in Ethiopia, the Oromo's has been protesting. The protests started in opposing the Master plan which had plans to expand the boundaries of the capital city Addis Ababa, to neighboring Oromia region, which is also known as "Oromia special zone".

Even though the regional government scraps the "Addis Ababa and Oromia integrated development master plan" that could not stop the already wide spread protests who expands their demand for social and economic justice. The government response to the peaceful protesters was brutal. Many rights groups (including EHRP) released a report that the government of Ethiopia has used excessive forces to disperse the protests and killed over 500 people in addition to reports of many disappeared, in tens of thousands arrested both at regional and federal level.

Ethiopia Human Rights Project (EHRP) has been following the trial of individuals who have been detained and sent to federal prison in relation to the ongoing Oromo protests. Below is a list of political leaders and human rights activists who have been charged with controversial Ethiopia Anti-Terror proclamation only at federal level

NOTE: The list covers only from November 2015 up to July 2016:
